Our aims....

- Share good practice in information literacy teaching and research
- Provide a network and a voice for information literacy work in the library profession

- Undertake research and innovation initiatives
- Work across the library sectors
- Reach out beyond the library sector.....

Information literacy in the UK

- Despite increasing recognition of the value of digital literacy & skills in UK government, information literacy work often not recognised outside Higher Education (HE) sector
- Attempts to address this through the research bursaries scheme: focusing outside HE
- Developing links with: schools, workplaces, trade unions, other professional groups and organisations
- Advertising for an Advocacy and Outreach Officer

IL in the HE Sector

- IL highly developed and widely recognised in university libraries
- Increasing focus on
 - Finding, evaluating and managing information (plagiarism)
 - transition from school and graduates going into the workplace
 - digital and using social media tools
- Expertise on supporting research students and students undertaking dissertations
- Many attempts to embed in curriculum

Our challenge.....

- To get IL outside the HE community
- To break down the digital divide
- To connect with other interested stakeholders who may have traditional views of what librarians do and information literacy

- First project funded by ILG based in Newcastle public library
- Support for residents to go online
- Establish a network of digital champions
- Training for front line Newcastle council staff

Current ILG research projects

- DeVIL Project(Determining the value of information literacy for employers)
- How does Information Literacy add real value to businesses?
- Developing a tool to determine how information competences underpin the performance and effectiveness of enterprises
- Research led by Stephane Goldstein and Drew Whitworth

Current research projects in 2015

- Learning, lending, liberty? Can school libraries be engines for youth citizenship?
- The role of public libraries in citizenship education and political participation
- Led by Lauren Smith

- A initiative in UK schools for 13-16 year olds to foster an interest in science, technology and innovation
- Run TeenTech events around the UK
- Sponsors include: Google, Airbus, nationalgrid, Network Rail, Maplin and ILG
- Prestigious awards ceremony at Royal Society
- From 2015 all projects judged on their Research and Information Literacy skills

Student Ambassadors at LSE

“By digital literacy we mean those capabilities which fit an individual for living, learning and working in a digital society: for example, the skills to use digital tools to undertake academic research, writing and critical thinking; as part of personal development planning; and as a way of showcasing achievements.”

JISC definition:

SADL Project aims

- To understand students' existing digital and information literacy (DIL) skills.
- To explore how best to support students to improve their DIL skills and provide peer support.

Student partnerships

- Students can be empowered
- Sharing experiences beyond their institution
- Working with other students (not just Students' Union)
- A more 'real' student voice
- Your champions!
- Student partnership toolkit (from Jisc)
- Tensions: freedom vs support, guidance and structure

SADL Senior Ambassadors

- Worked alongside staff
- Gave feedback on workshop content
- Guided and worked with students in workshops
- Gave feedback on sessions
- Led student projects

Going forward

“For partnership to be embedded and sustained beyond documents, projects and initiatives, it needs to become part of the culture and ethos of the institution”

HEA framework for partnership in learning and teaching in higher education (2014)

Why digital and information literacy?

- Terminology matters
- It's about identities and boundaries
- It can prevent links being made
- But it can start a dialogue about purpose & values
